#18 / 18A COLLOIDAL SILVER

Doctor's Choice Colloidal Silver Homeopathic Oral Spray is a clever combination of a time-tested antiseptic and disinfectant with a homeopathic method of preparation, producing an excellent remedy against bacterial infection and immune-boosting. Silver, used here in colloidal form, is becoming increasingly important in the medical world; and Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth maintains a Royal Homeopath to this day.

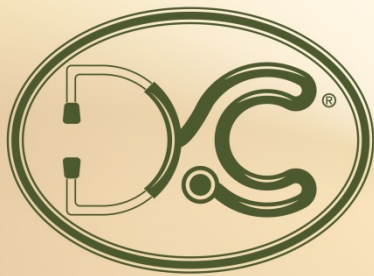

Silver has a long tradition as an antiseptic. In fact, the expression “born with a silver spoon in his mouth”, so the story goes, came about because the wealthy gave their children silver eating utensils and toys, such as teething rings and rattles, specifically to ward off disease. Considering what sanitation facilities were like in those times, this is likely more fact than legend. And doctors for many years gave newborn infants eye drops of silver solution at birth, to prevent infection. In colloid (suspended in water, not dissolved) form, silver ions are bioactive, and prevent bacteria from forming the chemical bonds they need in order to multiply. Consistently, studies have shown that silver has a well-deserved reputation.

Silver's importance in medical applications is increasing of late, due to the upsurge in antibiotic-resistant bacteria: even wound dressings are incorporating silver to protect against such infections, which are now rampant throughout our hospitals. Supportive studies are showing that silver ions are highly effective against bacterial infections, including the resistant ones. Silver also kills bacteria in external wounds in living tissue, and therefore physicians use wound dressings containing silver sulfadiazine (Ag-SD) to treat external infections. In addition, silver is used in medical applications, such as urinary catheters and endotracheal breathing tubes, where the silver content is effective in reducing incidences of catheter-related urinary tract infections and ventilator-associated pneumonia, respectively. Silver is also used in bone prostheses, reconstructive orthopedic surgery and cardiac devices, as well as on surfaces and fabrics to reduce the spread of infection.

Concerns of health authorities regarding consumption of colloidal silver are ably answered here, with this homeopathically-prepared colloidal silver formulation. Homeopathy, which is a therapeutic method using micro-doses (parts per million) of natural substances from plants, animals, and minerals, has never raised safety issues due to the extreme dilution of the remedies; such micro-doses are used in order to stimulate the body's natural mechanisms to protect and heal itself. Using the principle of “Similia Similibus Curentur” (“Like cures like”),
